THIS number, closing the year, has been somewhat delayed so as to include the monthly list for December within the yearly volume. As noted elsewhere, one of the first numbers in the new year will be the International Copyright number, in which also there may be some necessary delay because of the magnitude of the lists.

NOTES IN SEASON.

HARPER & BROS. will publish shortly the two concluding volumes of Kinglake's "History of the Invasion of the Crimea," the second volume of Henry Charles Lea's "History of the Inquisition of the Middle Ages;" and Stepniak's new book, "The Russian Peasantry."

J. W. BOUTON has in press an attractive volume for lovers of the dramatic art in "A Portfolio of Players." It will contain twenty photogravure portraits, in character and otherwise, of members of Daly's troupe. H. C. Bunner, William Winter, Brander Matthews, Lawrence Hutton, and others have furnished the literary matter.

T. Y. CROWELL & CO. have in press for immediate publication an authorized translation, by Nathan Haskell Dole, of "Maximina," the new novel by Don Armando Palacio Valdés, whose "Marta y Maria," translated under the title of "The Marquis of Peñalto," was received with such universal favor.

T. B. PETERSON & BROS. announce in press a novel entitled "Snatched from the Poor-house; a young girl's life history," by N. J. Clodfelter. A coal-mining region of Pennsylvania is the scene of the romance, and incidentally the dangers and privations connected with the lives of the miners are touched upon with considerable force and realism.

A. D. F. RANDOLPH & CO. will publish immediately "The Triumph of the Presbytery of Hanover, or, the separation of church and state in Vigrinia," to which is added a concise "History of the Presbyterian Church in America," from 1705 to 1888, by Jacob Harris Patton, M.A., Ph.D. The purpose of the first portion is to exhibit the history of the struggle for religious liberty in Virginia, from 1783 to 1786, while the second presents the salient points in the history of the rise and progress of the entire Church, from the organination of the first Presbytery in 1705 to the present time. Messrs. Randolph will also publish at once a limited edition of Edwin Hodder's "Life of Samuel Morley."

CHARLES SCRIBNER & SONS will publish at once Robert Louis Stevenson's "Memoir" of his friend and early instructor, Fleeming Jenkin, which, by the way, will have a rich autobiographic flavor, the author giving many incidents and impressions of his early youth, besides presenting a remarkable character-study of his dead tutor and friend; James Anthony Froude's new work, "The English in the West Indies;" and Dr. Henry M. Field's new book, "Old Spain and New Spain." They also announce that they will issue a special edition of Prof. C. A. Briggs' notable work on "American Presbyterianism," in view of the forthcoming centennial of the Presbyterian Church in America, to be held in June next.

POSTAL MATTERS.

PRINTING ON MAIL WRAPPERS.

A DESPATCH from Washington dated December 24 says: "The Postmaster-General has prepared a bill which will be introduced in the House as soon as practicable after the reassembling of Congress, materially modifying the present law relating to permissible writing or printing on the wrappers of second, third, and fourth-class mail matter. The bill provides that the words "sample copies" and "marked copies" may be printed on the wrappers or enclosures of second-class matter, and that in addition to the original print, written corrections of typographical errors may be enclosed. The bill also provides that any printing which is mailable as third-class matter may be placed upon the wrappers of such matter, provided it is not in the nature of correspondence, and provided further that a sufficiently large space be left for the address. As to fourth-class matter, the bill allows the same advertisements to be printed on the wrappers as is permitted to be enclosed with the merchandise contained therein."

Cruger, Mary. The Vanderheyde manor-house, N. Y., Worthington Co., [1887.] 2+323 p. D. cl., $1.25.

An unjust suspicion forced Harry Elliot to resign hopes of a brilliant business career, and take up his residence in the old Vanderheyde manor-house; about the same time a strange misunderstanding with his wife occurred, then his financial prospects brightened, and young Elliot commenced to plan for the future, when the mystery of the story abruptly terminate his hopes and add strange complications that intensify the interest and curiosity of the reader.

Cunningham, Allan. Traditional tales of the English and Scottish peasantry ; with an introduction by H: Morley. N. Y., G: Routledge & Sons, 1887. 288 p. D. (Morley's universal lib., no. 56.) cl., 40 c.; hf. parch., 60 c.

D., S. E. Mahaly Sawyer; or, putting yourself in her place. Bost., Cupples & Hurd, 1888 [1887.] c. 5+328 p. S. cl., $1.25.

In the form of a story, of which the scene is laid in New England, the author aims to teach the relative duties of ladies and servant girls. Mahaly Sawyer is a young lady who "lives out" for a year as an experiment, and then instructs ladies and servants that if their mutual relations are to be peaceful and profitable, they must be based on the injunction, "to do unto others as ye would they should do unto you."

Daryl, Philippe. Ireland's disease ; notes and impressions. [The author's English version.] N. Y., G: Routledge & Sons, 1887. 10+342 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Dick, Conzae and Cresswell, Ja. David and Bathsheba ; a royal romance based on rabbinical tradition ; with particulars concerning the weekly celebration of the supper of King David. N. Y., G: Routledge & Sons, 1887. 221 p. D. cl., $1.

Kirkwood, Dan. The asteroids; or, minor planets between Mars and Jupiter. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1888 [1887.] c. 60 p. D. cl., 75 c.

Part 1 presents in a popular form the leading historical facts as to the discovery of Ceres, Pallas, Juno, Vesta, and Astræa; a tabular statement of the dates and places of discovery for the entire group; a list of the names of discoverers, with the number of minor planets detected by each; and a table of the principal elements so far as computed. In pt. 2 this descriptive summary is followed by questions relating to the origin of the cluster; the elimination of members from particular parts; the eccentricities and inclinations of the orbits, and the relation of the zone to comets of short period.

Lieb, Hermann. The protective tariff; what it does for us. Chic., published by the author, Hermann Lieb, [Western News Co.,] 1888. c. 232 p. D. cl., $1.

This book is the complement of a lecture delivered before the Philosophical Society of Chicago and the Winnebago Club of Rockford, Illinois, and its aim is to show the practical effect of the protective system upon the country. Perhaps the most conspicuous feature of the book is its exact alignment with the message of President Cleveland. The arrangement of the subject is in convenient form and renders the subject easy of comprehension. It will serve as a tariff primer for the learner as well as a text-book for the learned.

Life's problems here and hereafter: an autobiography. Bost., Cupples & Hurd, 1887. c. 7+317 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The story of a religious experience based upon fact. "I propose," the author says, "to set forth the way and the means by which my doubts were silenced, difficulties overcome, perplexities cleared up, and I was made to know that God is, that man is immortal, that our personality permanently endures, that a real substantial world awaits each man, woman and child at death, that we shall know each other, and ultimately be united as one family."

Little month of the Souls in Purgatory; from the French by Miss Ella McMahon. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1887. Tt. cl., 35 c.

Mundt, Mrs. Clara Müller, ["Louise Mühlbach," pseud.] Goethe and Schiller; from the Jena edition of 1867. N. Y., J: W. Lovell Co., [1887.] 387 p. D. (Lovell's lib., no. 1054.] pap., 30 c.

Murray, D: Christie, and Herman, H: One traveller returns. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1888 [1887.] 2+314 p. D. pap., 50 c.

A picturesque tale of ancient Wales and the early Christians, and the descent of the Romans upon Briton. The scenes are laid in the midst of a tribe of Druids or sun worshippers, of which Feltor is king and Vreda queen. Vreda has secretly embraced Christianity, and loses her life through poison administered by a jealous woman, who is commanded by the arch-Druid to do the deed. "Vreda" is the traveller who returns from the "undiscovered country," and who in another form and under another name awakens her people to a sense of their sins and prepares them to accept Christianity.

Nicholas, Griffith A. The Biddy Club; and how its members, wise and otherwise, some toughened and some tender-footed in the rugged ways of housekeeping, grappled with the troublous servant question, to the great advantage of themselves, and, as they hope, of many others. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1888 [1887.] c. 3–308 p. D. cl., $1.25.

This racy little volume deals, as its title implies, with the vexed and vexing problem commonly known as the "Servant-girl question." The subject was perhaps never treated in a fresher, more entertaining, and more thoroughly practical way. The familiar and often piquant "experience meeting," which it has been alleged takes place whenever two or three housekeepers are met together, is here developed into a ladies' club, whose weekly discussions are cleverly reported for the present work.

Notley, F. E. M. From the other side. N. Y., J: W. Lovell Co., [1887.] 414 p. D. (Lovell's lib., no. 1095.) pap., 20 c.

Ohorn, L. M. The angel of the village; tr. by Mrs. Mathews. Bost., Cupples & Hurd, 1888 [1887.] c. 3–253 p. S. cl., $1.25.

A story of life in a manufacturing village. The proprietor of the factory is obliged to reduce wages, and much suffering ensues. The "angel of the village," a charming young girl, and her father do all they can to quiet the dissatisfied workingmen. The plot of the story turns upon the contests between the oppressed workingmen and their tyrannical employer. A good description is given of a strike at the factory.

Our war songs, north and south; with original words and tunes; each song having piano or organ accompaniment. Cleveland, O., S. Brainard's Sons, 1887. 638 p. por. O. cl., subs., $3.75; mor., $5.25.

Palgrave, Mary E. Pictorial geography of the British Isles. N. Y., E. & J. B. Young & Co., 1887. 102 p. il. obl. O. cl., net, $1.50.

An interesting text and a number of full-page and text pictures specially recommend this for study and reading.

Palmer, Francis B. The science of education; designed as a text-book for teachers. Cin., Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co., 1887. c. 341 p. D. (Eclectic educational ser.) cl., $1.17.

While designed mainly to lay a foundation for the development of methods of teaching for those who are preparing themselves for the work of the school-room, the principles and laws developed are no less applicable, to public speaking, family training, etc.

Perboyre, Jean Gabriel. Life of the venerable servant of God Jean Gabriel Perboyre; from the French by Lady Clare Feilding. N. Y., Catholic Pub. Soc. Co., 1887. 139 p. S. cl., net, 70 c.

The subject of this memoir was a Roman Catholic missionary who suffered martyrdom in China, 1840, through strangulation, on account of his faith.

Richardson, D. N. A girdle round the earth; home letters from foreign lands. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1888 [1887.] c. 10+449 p. O. cl., $2.

The author of this book—Hon. D. N. Richardson, Editor of the Davenport (Iowa) Democrat—has a talent for travelling and a faculty for narration not often united in one person. Mr. Richardson started westward from the Mississippi River, and returned to it from the eastward; and in thus putting "a girdle round the earth," he visited as many countries and saw as many of their important and characteristic features as was easily possible within the time. The author's quickness of perception and fulness of information, aided by his never-failing humor and his off-hand narrative style, have combined to produce an uncommonly readable and instructive book of travels.

"Through his poems runs the thought, expressed in many ways, of the oneness of nature and man; 'The blossom, the bird, and my heart, they are one.' He was like Jones Very in his feeling of kinship with all growing things, and with all phases of the changing seasons. His glad verses called 'May' are a remarkable expression of this intense feeling. Each tree had for him its individual character and its special meaning." —Boston Post.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

DECEMBER 31, 1887.

PUBLISHERS are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of auty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE TURN OF THE YEAR.

ACCORDING to most reports from the trade, the year 1887 closes with a fair record as a business year, both for the publishing and bookselling business, although the conditions of bookselling have not bettered as they should have done, and the desired boom in publishing has not appeared. The Fall business in the publishing trade has been on the whole good, with some falling off in December, which is, however, largely to be accounted for by the fact that large stocks are pushed on the market by travellers early in the season, so that there is less need to stock up again than in former times. This year is probably the last in which the cheap library system will be much in vogue, as the field for profitable work in that direction has evidently been nearly exhausted, and it will not be practicable indefinitely to keep up periodical publication of novels at the present rate, now that the quota must be filled by so large a proportion of the poorest English trash that would not be reprinted except under the necessity of "regular publication" to obtain the second-class postal rates. The new year will open with the most vigorous crusade in behalf of international copyright that has yet been made, and with a union of the forces and a hope of result such as no previous attempt has shown. There is also a general feeling that something must be done, possibly either by shortening discounts or by doing away with published retail prices, to get the bookselling trade out of the Slough of Despond into which current methods have brought it. The population of this country increases so fast in numbers and in wealth that the trade in books must increase year by year, but the increase of late years has been by no means adequate. If the next year can bring about improvements in the two or three lines indicated, the results of 1888 will be much better than those of the year that has just closed.

WE shall issue the first of the year an International Copyright number which will be of especial importance and value in connection with the coming push for an international copyright bill. It will contain the full text of the International Copyright Union, ratified last Fall by most civilized nations, the several measures to promote international copyright which have in recent years been brought before Congress, reports of the New York and Boston copyright meetings, and a large quantity of other material of great value. This will be supplemented by bibliographical lists of the works of living American authors (and others of note recently deceased) in which nearly all the leading publishers have undertaken to coöperate. Those who have not done so are urged to communicate with us at once, as it is most important that all publishers who really favor international copyright should be represented in this list. The Annual Summary number will follow as usual later in January.

THE BROTHERHOOD OF COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS' THIRD ANNUAL DINNER.

A BRIGHT, crisp, cold winter evening, succeeding a bleak and rather moisty day, fell to the lot of the members of the Brotherhood of Commercial Travellers and their friends on the 28th of December, the date fixed upon to meet at the luxurious banquet-hall of the Metropolitan Hotel, at New York, to do justice to the third annual "spread" of the association. There were over a hundred present and all in the best of spirits, and as ex-president Hopkins said in the course of his speech later in the evening, "we had one pretty good dinner and then another, and this time we have a grand one."

The well-known precept of every traveller—"Business before Pleasure"—was sustained even on this occasion, by a short executive session called at 7 P.M., to act on the resolutions offered at the adjourned meeting of December 21, relative to an increase of the dues and the membership. It was quickly decided to double the "ante," but the proposition to "raise the limit" met with a rebuke from the conservative element. A motion to adjourn to dinner was carried without a dissenting voice. The company then proceeded to the gayly and handsomely festooned dining-room in charge of Messrs. J. F. Hitchcock, Henry M. Reed, John A. McQuillan, Charles H. Iehle, and W. J. Kelly, of the Committee of Arrangements, and Messrs. R. L. Thomas, F. E. Hafely, T. S. James, F. Van Culin, E. B. Maynard, and J. L. Locke, of the Reception Committee. The menu card was a decided surprise. It was in the shape of a regulation N. Y. Central through ticket with eleven coupons. On each coupon were given the names of the dishes of the course with quotations from Shakespeare and other sources—something like this:

ISSUED BY THE
BROTHERHOOD OF COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS OF N. Y.
Salon to Huitres.
Blue Points.
"The banquet waits our presence, festal joy
Laughs in the mantling goblet, and the night
Illumin'd by the tapers, dazzling beam,
Rivals departed day."
—Brown's Barbarossa.

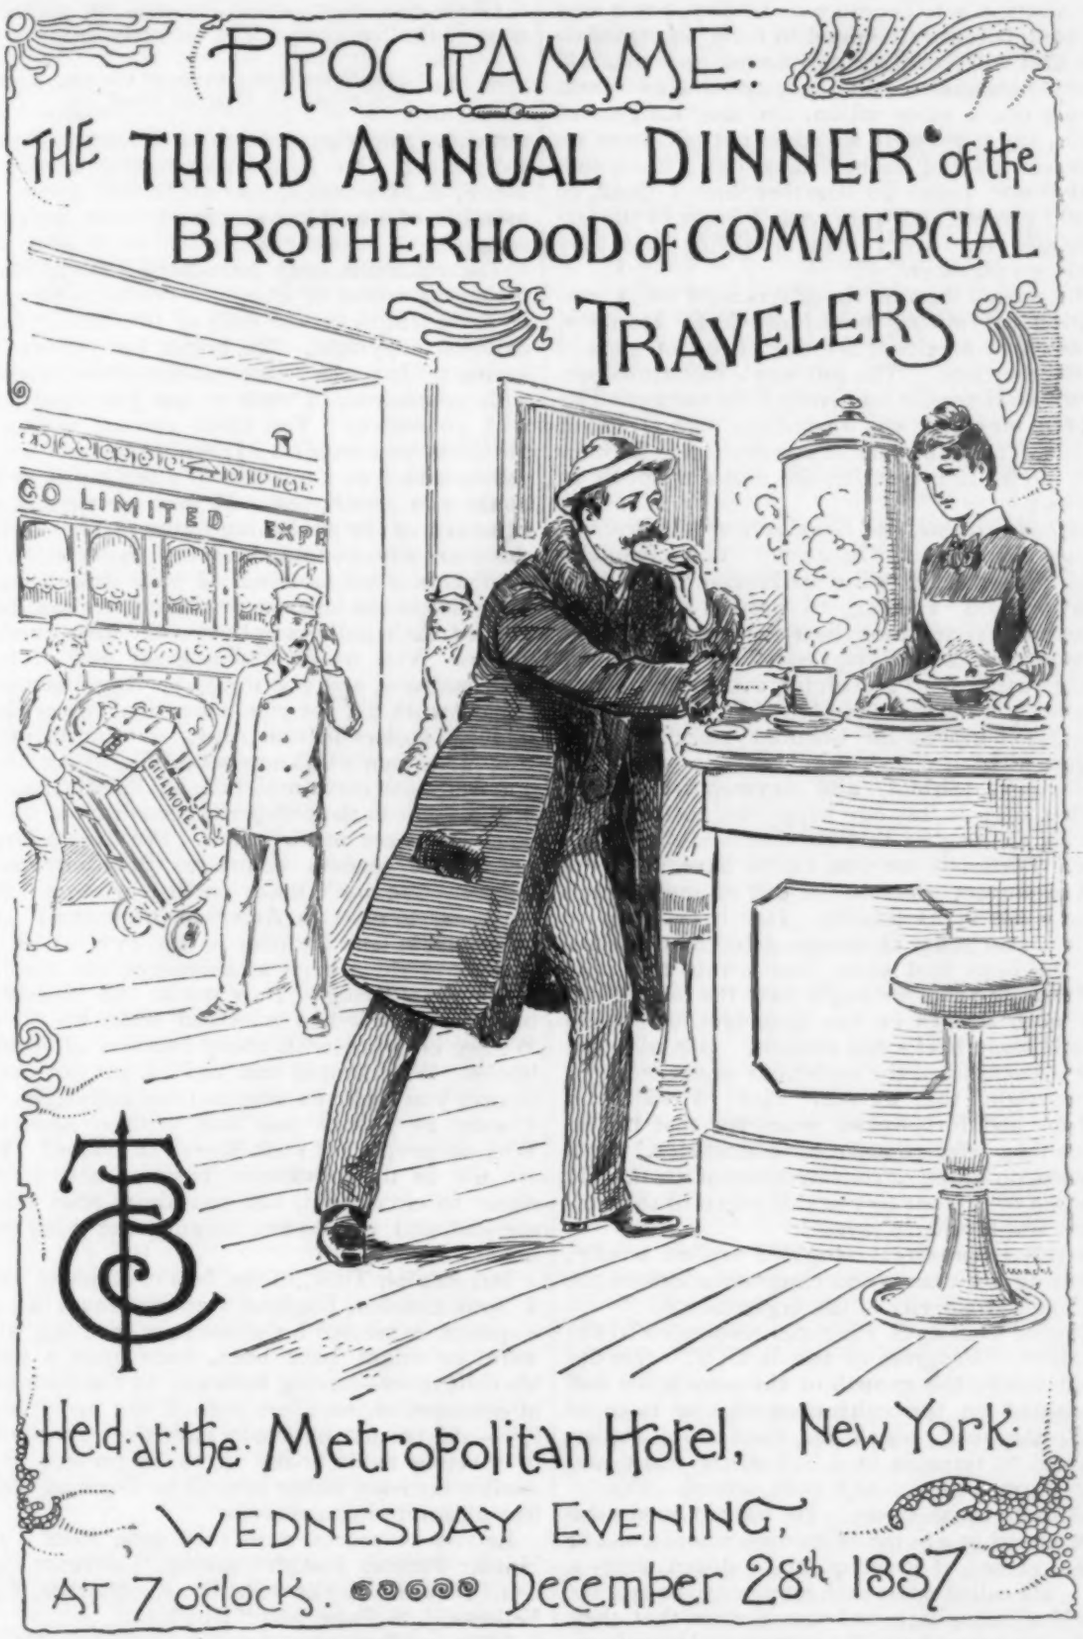
The ticket and coupons had evidently been punched by the baggage-master, and, judging from the ribbon-stamps on the back, had been procured of a well-known scalper on Broadway. The guest card was a triangular affair with the mongram



B. C. T. embossed in colors in one angle, and the guest's name in bronze and colors beneath it.

After the last course, which was down on the menu as "Café and Cognac to a Flow of Soul," the president Col. J. H. Ammon "let down the bars" by saying: "We have some pleasant and serious duties to perform and I wish to ask the full support of the Brotherhood. The first thing in order is the address of the president, but in this case the president has not any address. From the beginning this society has been a success, and we number our full membership, one hundred strong, good and true men. Not only have we not lost any members by death, but business has been good. We commenced this organization as a social entertainmeut, so that we could come together and greet each other as old friends who have been on the road, who have met every danger, and who have come back like soldiers with honor and glory to our firesides. This organization is composed of representatives of houses; some of you are employees and some are members of firms. When an organization is formed it is looked upon with suspicion by capitalists. In this case the organization is to promote sociability, but it may be more, because we intend to form an organization that will be more permanent, and that will have a headquarters in the city of New York. We are not a labor union, are not Knights of Labor, and if we were we could not ask those we represent to put money into our club-house. Capital and Labor go together, and I think, so far as I can see and from what I know of the association, that every man is willing that they should go together."

The second item on the programme was a presentation to retiring president C. E. Hopkins, the first vice-president and one of the founders of the Brotherhood. The gift was a miniature gavel with gold handle and ivory head suspended by a ribbon on which was worked the monogram of the B. C. T. and the year of presentation. Brother A. E. Welsh in presenting the emblem spoke as follows:

"Mr. President, and Gentlemen of the Brotherhood of Commercial Travellers: You have delegated me to act as your spokesman and representative this evening, to present with your kindest wishes and most hearty good-will a slight token of your esteem and respect for one who has for the past year so gracefully, and, may I say, in so princely a manner presided over your deliberations, and graced the honored place at your banquet table.

"Earnest, faithful, and devoted friend and Brother, may it be our happy lot to have you with us so long as this Brotherhood shall continue. Fortunate are you, sir, to have filled the most important office in the gift of our organization while in its infancy. Has it occurred to you, sir, that some of us were deluding ourselves with the hope that some time within the next ninety-seven years we might have the mantle you have worn thrown on our shoulders, and wield this miniature beef steak mauler? But, alas, for great expectations, the ambitious ones among us find to-night that we may have to wait two hundred and forty-seven years for that honor. 'Hope long deferred maketh the heart sick.' Bro. Hopkins, on behalf of your Brothers of the B. C. T. allow me to present to you this token of their affection and brotherly love."

To this ex-president Hopkins replied briefly, expressing his thanks and congratulations on the health and prosperity of the organization.

Founder Charles S. Plummer responded to the sentiment, "Progress of the B. C. T." He described briefly the growth of the association and commented on the cultivation of the taste of the Brotherhood, which had risen from Italian macaroni to terrapin in a hall where many and many a great dinner had been served. But he wasn't quite satisfied yet. He wanted to see the Brotherhood in a home of its own, where it would come together, if it were only a dozen times a year. He called upon each member to constitute himself a committee, and was certain that they would soon have a home for commercial travellers. He then proposed a toast to the memory of those departed friends "who passed away before we became an organization," which was drank in silence.

Mr. Fred Harvey next favored the guests with a couple of songs, and then the company according to the programme was supposed to be entering into a state of "General Brotherly Exuberance."

Mr. Wallace Bruce, the poet, and an invited guest, rendered one of his own poems, "Inasmuch," a Christmas story which, he said, he picked up west of the Nevadas. The pathetic lines—

> "The lowest trump supports the ace,
> And sometimes wins the game"—

struck a sympathetic chord in the heart of many a drummer. Mr. Bruce was heartily applauded. Mr. F. A. Arveschau, also an invited guest, and member of a well-known church choir, sang two songs.

The chairman next introduced Mr. J. Foord, managing editor of Harper's Weekly, who spoke at some length on the evils of the lack of international copyright. He began his remarks by saying: "It seems to me you are all well satisfied with yourselves. I want to get you dissatisfied with yourselves. You think you are selling all the books you want to. It strikes me you are not selling a half, or a quarter, or a tenth part of the books you should sell. If you, gentlemen, the right arm of the publishing business, are satisfied, the man who supplies the raw material to the publishers is not satisfied. I have known works of genius in the last two or three years that have yielded their authors only two or three hundred dollars. You would find a great deal of fault with business, and you would be very dissatisfied if your work did not yield more than two or three hundred dollars in that time. I want to put it to you, as men who know something about books and American literature, if the publishing business is at present in the prosperous condition it should be? It strikes me it is not. We have a larger number of readers before us than any other people. We don't make enough of them. Are we going to have an American literature? Are books to be the luxuries of the rich, or is the making of them to be a business at which a man can make a living? It is not at this moment a business at which a man can make his living. We are crowded with cheap reprints of foreign books. Why should that be? I am not going to give you a talk on international copyright, but I want to put to you this primary question, Why do people not read American books? You are not in the newspaper business and do not swear to circulation, but you know what books are sold, and you do not magnify the thing very much."

Mr. Adolph Tuck, of the firm of Raphael Tuck & Sons, London, England, responded to a call for a speech, expressed his pleasure at meeting, what were, or might have been, once upon a time, his colleagues—having belonged to the fraternity of commercial travellers himself not many years ago—and trusted he would have the opportunity of meeting again many of those present on a similar occasion either here or in England under like pleasant circumstances.

Letters of regret were then read from Gen. Horace Porter, Joseph Cushing, Lawrence Barrett, Howard Lockwood, R. R. Bowker, Col. Fellows, J. S. Page, and "Bill Nye."

After another song by Mr. Arveschau, Mr. W. J. Kelly, who had been boisterously called upon, made a neat little speech, which was followed by another from Mr. C. T. Dillingham, who responded for the Booksellers' and Stationers' Association. Mr. Dillingham among other things called attention to the fact that the Provident Association now numbers over nine hundred members, that the average death-rate since the beginning had been less than four per year, that in consequence those who had been members from the start had only been assessed $4.40 a year, and that the beneficiaries with few exceptions had been dependent almost entirely upon the money received from the Association. He asked all present to coöperate in bringing the Provident Association up to the maximum and to start a second class of a thousand.

Brothers Walker and Swayne then delivered a few but eloquent words, which were followed by a song from Mr. Harvey and a lengthy and clever address by C. B. Maynard in which he gave an account of the joys and woes of a "Traveller's Life."

After singing Auld Lang Syne, the B. C. T. packed up and went forth into the cold morning and into a wind that blew at the rate of fifty miles an hour.

The programme was an elaborate one of eight pages and a folder of bristol board with rough edges. The title-page, of which we give a reproduction, was touched up in color by hand, the lettering being in gold. On the last page was a cut of a trunk on which were placed a shawl in strap, a cane and umbrella and a hat-box.

OBITUARY.

JAMES D. HURD.

JAMES D. HURD, of the firm of Houghton, Mifflin & Co., died at his residence in Newtonville, Mass., December 27, 1887. His death removes from the business world of Boston one of its most earnest and ambitious young men, and causes to his associates in his chosen field the loss of a highly esteemed and especially valued member. Mr. Hurd was born in Bridgeport, Ct., some 35 years ago. In his infancy his parents removed to Brooklyn, N. Y., and in that city he spent his early life. He prepared for college in the Polytechnic institute of Brooklyn, where he graduated with honors—delivering an oration on that occasion at the Academy of Music in Brooklyn. He went to Trinity College in Hartford, Ct., in 1874, when he was a little more than 21 years of age. At Trinity he was president of his class during the Freshman year, took several prizes during his college course, and graduated with high honors, delivering an oration at graduation. He was a Phi Beta Kappa man, and received the degree of M. A. from his Alma Mater in 1877. Immediately after his graduation he entered the employment of Hurd & Houghton in New York as clerk, and in a few years he was taken into partnership with that firm. He removed to Boston about nine years ago, his duties calling him to the main office of the firm, and took up his residence in Newtonville. His special charge was the wholesale department, which he systematized with admirable skill and managed with remarkable success.

Mr. Hurd was a prominent member of the Episcopal Church, and took an active interest in its affairs, He was essentially what might be termed a "home man," and took but a passing interest in the calls of society or politics. In business he had received a complete education for that part which he chose for his work, and he was thoroughly identified with and understood the minutest details of the business of publishing.

Mr. Hurd came from a family highly connected. His grandfather, Philo Hurd, was prominent in social and political circles, both in New York and Bridgeport, Ct., and was president of the N. Y. & Harlem Railroad Corporation. His father, Melancthon M. Hurd, is well known in business circles, having for a long time been a member of the publishing firm of Hurd & Houghton. In 1876 he married Miss Bartholomew, of Hartford, who, with a son seven years old survives him.

ROBERT FULTON LEAMAN.

MR. R. F. LEAMAN, whose death on the 12th December has already been noticed in these columns, was born in Bucks County, Pa., December 3, 1841. While quite young, his parents removed to Montgomery County, Ohio, his venerable mother still residing at Dayton, O. He was educated at the Academy at New Carlisle, Clarke County, O., and later at the High School in Dayton. He became a successful teacher in the Dayton schools, where he taught while preparing for the bar. In the summer of 1864 he entered the army with the 131st O. V. I., and served as orderly sergeant of the color company. At the close of this service he accepted a position in the commissary department, and was stationed at Baltimore.

In 1866 he entered the employ of Sargent, Wilson & Hinkle, Cincinnati, and in 1874 became a partner with the firm of Wilson, Hinkle & Co., and later a member of the firm of Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co., which succeeded to the business of the firms before mentioned.

Mr. Leaman married Miss Kate Phillips, who, with four children, survives him. Two brothers are living, one in California and the other at Leaman, Ill. Robert Leaman was a social, genial companion, a kind-hearted friend, a noble, upright gentleman. He leaves behind him hosts of friends to mourn his loss.

BUSINESS NOTES.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—Mr. Ben Flexner, who has been connected with the retail department of John P. Morton & Co., has formed a partnership with Mr. B. Staadeker, for many years a successful merchant in Kentucky. Under the name of Flexner & Staadeker they will conduct a retail book and stationery business here. They have secured spacious quarters on Fourth Avenue, the leading retail business street, and will fit up and equip the most complete store of the kind in the South. Both members of the firm will be easterly in January, but in the meantime request that all publishers, booksellers, stationers, and dealers in stationers' novelties, send their lists with quotations to them at 330 Fourth Avenue, Louisville, Ky.

NEW YORK CITY.—Charles T. Dillingham, who for nearly fifteen years has been located at 678 Broadway, will remove January 25, 1888, to E. Faber's former store at 718 and 720 Broadway, facing the New York Hotel. He will here have a store with a frontage of fifty feet, three floors above, and under it a basement and sub-basement. This will afford him ample storage room, and enable him to make a better display, and to give more accommodation to purchasers than was possible in the store now occupied by Mr. Dillingham. The success of Mr. Dillingham has been a most gratifying one, and proves what a thorough knowledge of the business and tact can accomplish.

NEW YORK CITY,—Cassell & Company will remove on or about February 1, 1888, to Nos. 104 and 106 Fourth Avenue, a few doors below Macmillan & Co.'s quarters. They will occupy the whole building, of which we shall give a description in a future issue.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE Rev. Henry Van Dyke, of the old Brick Church, New York City, will on the morning of January 8, 1888, preach a sermon on the moral phase of the agitation in favor of international copyright.

ALEXANDER MOORE, 3 School St., Boston, announces a volume of "Lyrics on Freedom, Love and Death," by George F. Cameron, edited by his brother, Chas. J. Cameron, of Queen's University, Kingston.

MR. ARTHUR E. WELCH, for a number of years with Cassell & Company, makes his bow as a publisher on his own account. He has taken quarters at 839 and 841 Broadway, New York. He will make a specialty of fine art, illustrated, and miscellaneous works. Particulars as to his plans will be given later.

HENRY BARNARD LL.D., 28 Main St., Hartford, Conn., will publish this month a new edition, very much enlarged, of his work on "Pestalozzi and Swiss Pedagogy: memoir and educational principles of John Henry Pestalozzi, with biographical sketches of other Swiss Educators, and some account of Swiss pedagogy in other countries."

MR. ANDREW CARNEGIE'S remarkable work, "Triumphant Democracy," has reached its eighth edition, and Messrs. Scribner are about to signalize this by bringing out the book in two new and cheaper editions, cloth and paper bindings. The cloth edition will be similar to that in which 40,000 copies of the work have been sold in England.

THAT delightful work for girls, "The American Girl's Handy Book," is finding special favor with the famous women of the land, the Messrs. Scribner having received very warm and commendatory letters from Miss Alcott, Marion Harland, Grace Greenwood, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Harriet Prescott Spofford, and Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher.

JOHN MURPHY & SONS, of Baltimore, Printers to the Holy See, have in press a pamphlet entitled "Hints on the Study of the Sacred Books," by Mr. Merwin-Marie Snell, of the Smithsonian Institution. The work bears the imprimatur of Cardinal Gibbons, and possesses some interest as representing the present attitude of the Catholic Church in America towards the reading and study of the Bible. It is to be accompanied by a "List of Catholic works accessible in the English language treating of Biblical subjects," which contains nearly a hundred titles.

WORKS OF HONORÉ DE BALZAC.

Translated by Miss K. P. WORMELEY. Presenting selections from the "Comédie Humaine," and including "Scenes from Parisian Life," "Scenes from Country Life," "Scenes from Provincial Life," "Philosophical Studies," etc. Handsome 12mo volumes. Uniform in size and style. Half russia, $1.50 each.

The London Spectator says: "Every story is the unfolding of a single, well-defined plot, which is based on a perfectly outlined conception of some phase of human life. There are no episodes, no turnings aside. No page or chapter can be omitted. The volumes must be read in sheer good faith, or not at all. However varied the scenes may be, however intricate the action—and the action is generally not very intricate—each story has a distinct message to deliver, and it is conveyed as a whole and not in fragments. Perhaps the most surprising thing is that a translation of these novels should now be brought out sixty years after the publication of the last successful volume by the author, and thirty-six years after his death. . . . What is the secret of this revival of the cult of Balzac? It is that he not only amused and entertained his readers, but that he instructed them as well. No one since Shakespeare, with whom he has often been compared, and in some respects not inaptly, has had a deeper or a more pervading insight into the last recesses of that fathomless and mysterious thing that we call the human heart. His writings may be read simply as wonderful delineations of human life under exceptional influences and surroundings, but for their perfect enjoyment they must be accepted as profound studies in psychology, and as such they will repay the closest attention. No writer has displayed such a perfect realism combined with such a far-reaching metaphysical insight.

GEORGE MEREDITH'S NOVELS.

"Since the days of Thackeray, Dickens, and George Eliot, there has not appeared in the world of English fiction so commanding a figure as the author of this volume, and all lovers of good literature ought to make his acquaintance."—Chicago Journal.

"No one, who reads him in the intelligent spirit in which he has written, can finish one of his books without wishing it longer; there is no page over which the eye of understanding will not linger; almost every line sparkles with a wit which has not an equal in our day. Those leisurely readers, who delight in marking 'favorite passages,' will find, when they finish a volume, one continuous pencil line on the margin, from page one to Finis. The flavors of such books are as choice as those of rare Tokay. It is no wonder that Meredith gives deep and lasting intellectual pleasure, for he has applied a mind of unusual insight to the observation, often playful, more often serious, of English life, rich as it is in its thousand years of accumulated historical and social diversities."—Literary World.

Caspar's General Directory

OF THE

American Book, News, and Stationery Trades, Wholesale and Retail.

COMPILED BY C. N. CASPAR.

The work will include the Publishing; Subscription; Retail Book; Antiquarian; News; Maps; Art; Music; Manufacturing; Jobbing and Retail Stationery; Blank-Books and Paper Manufacturing Business, and General Jobbers in the above lines in the United States and Canada. The work will be divided into six parts, as follows:

Part I. will comprise a list of the firms in a General Alphabet; with full information in regard to their nature, their specialties, etc.; firm changes of Publishers, Manufacturing Stationers, Jobbers, etc.; the approximate commercial standing and the present Post-Office Address of all firms, etc., arranged on the plan of the samples given below:

Armstrong & Son, A. C., Bk. Pub., Job. in Bks., Imp. of Bks. (Formerly of Scribner, Armstrong & Co.) Est. 1879. 714 Broadway, New York, N. Y. B1

Clarke & Co., Robert, etc.	Ivison, Blakeman & Co., etc.	Funk & Wagnalls, etc.	†Jenkins, Wm. R., etc.

Part III., Digest of the Trade Lists of the Manufacturing and Jobbing Stationers, and the Blank-Book and Paper Makers, arranged same as Part II. above.

Part IV. gives the list of Publishers and Manufacturers arranged Geographically, by States and Territories, as follows:

☞ The sign § indicates the buyer of the house and the figure after the County the number of inhabitants of the place, according to the last census.

GEORGIA.

Area of State, 58,980 Sq. Miles. Population, 1,542,180.

ATLANTA—Fulton Co.—50,000.

Estes & Lauriat.—I. R. Webber§.—W. & R., Bk., Sub. Bk. and Per. & Mag. Pub., Job. in Bks., Imp. of Bks., Ant. Bkr.—301 to 305 Washington St. A1

Part V. gives the special nature of the various houses, enabling one to reach all firms with only such catalogues, circulars, etc., as may, by the character of their business, be of special interest to them. In this division all Publishers, Book Jobbers, Booksellers, Antiquarian Booksellers, News Companies, Newsdealers, Art Emporiums, Music Dealers, Manufacturing, Jobbing, and Retail Stationers, Blank-Book and Paper Makers, etc., will be separately classified and arranged in alphabetical order.

Part VI. embraces the Theory and Practice of the Book, News, and Stationery Trade, a list of Trade-Bibliographies and Trade-Journals, etc., etc. This section will prove of value to younger Booksellers, Newsdealers, or Stationers, and especially to inexperienced Dealers.

It is estimated that the Directory, when completed, will contain the addresses of nearly 20,000 FIRMS ACTUALLY IN BUSINESS.

Price to Subscribers $8.00 net—to Non-Subscribers, $12.00, net.
